'Baby Latoya death probe needs time'

Investigations not concluded – MEC

By Penwell Dlamini

Gauteng health MEC Gwen Ramokgopa has requested more time for her department to investigate the death of baby Latoya, who died in December after being prayed for at Prophet Paseka "Mboro" Motsoeneng's church.

"Based on the internal investigations, we are just asking for more time from the portfolio committee just for us to conclude the investigations. The EMS services are provided on our behalf by the Ekurhuleni municipality. They have sent reports.

"Once the preliminary report has been concluded, it is going to be presented to the independent patient safety committee ... and we will give a report," Ramokgopa said.
